History On January 23, 1991, Autodesk and IBM formed a joint venture, Autodesk, Inc., to make AutoCAD available to the outside world. Previously, AutoCAD was only available to IBM users, including their own sales force. At the time, the decision to release AutoCAD to outside users was not controversial within Autodesk, however some executives were opposed to the idea, believing that they would have to give up control over the product in order to make it available to the market. AutoCAD has been developed since its inception, and version 1.0 of AutoCAD was released in 1991. The initial version was limited to a DOS environment and had a small hard disk space, but it evolved over time. The first Windows version was released in 1993. In 1996, Autodesk was purchased by The Walt Disney Company, the majority shareholder having been spun off. On October 22, 1998, The Walt Disney Company was reorganized and renamed "The Walt Disney Company" in 2004. On April 15, 2005, it was formally reorganized as "The Walt Disney Company" again. On November 8, 2005, Autodesk was re-branded and re-incorporated as "Autodesk, Inc." During the last three decades, Autodesk has been headquartered in San Rafael, California. In 2014, Autodesk moved its headquarters to San Francisco. Products The first version of AutoCAD was shipped in 1991. AutoCAD is a 2D drafting and drawing program, and is used by architects and engineers for drafting. The initial release was a DOS-only application, but has since then been released on Windows as well as Unix platforms. Since version 8, AutoCAD has been available on the Microsoft Windows operating system, macOS, Linux, Solaris and AIX. The general structure of a drawing in AutoCAD consists of layers and entities, each of which have properties such as color and linetype. Layers are organized according to their placement in the drawing and create a layer stack. Entities are the components of the drawing. AutoCAD has the ability to automatically trace over an image on screen using "Auto Trace" and can be used to create ground plans. Images can be traced from a file, from web camera, or an image from a scanner. AutoCAD has several applications beyond drafting, including 2D image editing, CAD, 3 ca3bfb1094

This works fine, except for when the email address isn't filled out, and I'd like to fill it in with a default. I have an EditorField in my form for the email. I can retrieve the email address and save it to the database if the user submits the form. My problem is that I need to fill in the "Name" field if that email address isn't filled out. If I have the code to retrieve and save the email address I need, how can I use that to set the email address as the default value for the Name field? Here's the code I'm using: $q = $em->createQueryBuilder('entity'); $q->select('email') ->from('EmailBundle', 'entity') ->where('entity.user = :user') ->setParameter('user', $user) ->getQuery(); $em->clear(); $res = $q->getArrayResult(); if ($res) { $email = $res[0]->getEmail(); $entity->setEmail($email); $entity->setName($email); $em->flush(); return $entity; } I tried doing something like this: if ($res) { $entity->setEmail($email); $entity->setName($email); } else { $entity->setName('Name'); }
